

FlexFinance provides a loan application system that allows loan applications to be created via various sales channels. Once a decision on a loan has been made, an application is made into a contract.

A loan application can be created by the potential borrower via the web, by a financial advisor in a branch office or by sales partners in distance selling.

FlexFinance supports the following deal types:

- Consumer loans
- Mortgage loans
- Overdrafts
- Corporate loans

The special features of the various deal types are taken into account.

